

TO HONOR

CHARLES D. BUTLER

MASTER SERGEANT, U.S. AIR FORCE (RET)

Charles Butler was born in Plainfield, Connecticut and graduated from high school there. He entered military service in May of 1941 and became a skilled aviation engine mechanic. He served in Army Air Forces combat units in Europe in 1943 and 1944. After the war he was discharged and spent thirty-six years as an aircraft engine maintenance and service technician with Pratt-Whitney Corporation. He was married to Evelyn Alice Rood and they raised three children, David C. Butler, SMSgt, USAF (Ret.), Barbara L. Allison, and Alfred R. Butler.
